2. What consequences does Solomon list?
3. How does Solomon balance the negative commands with a positive view at the end of the chapter?
4. Parents, how can you implement Proverbs 5 instruction in your home?
5. It is neither wrong nor legalistic to create "fences" in your life to protect you from sin and temptation. Are there family policies that need to be in place regarding media and relationships, for example, which can save from hurt (even though they can change the heart)?
